

Not what you might expect from a commercial real estate broker.

About
Jerry
Neitlich

Mr. Jerry Neitlich brings over twenty-five years of corporate business experience as principal of IN/House Corporate Real Estate, the last 18 years concentrating on corporate real estate.

Mr. Neitlich spent six years with the corporate real estate division of Marcus & Millichap at a time when few commercial real estate firms specialized in representing corporate tenants. There he began focusing on assisting closely held companies. This experience set the foundation for IN/House Corporate Real Estate.

Today our clients look at IN/House not just as a broker called upon when they have space needs but rather as their in-house real estate department for the long-term providing on-going help with any real estate related matter.

Mr. Neitlich has been published in both local and national periodicals and frequently sits on professional panels to discuss real estate management issues.

Why do corporations employ full time in-house real estate departments?

- To provide long term facility planning based on business needs.
- To oversee transactions from initial search to final move-in.
- To professionally manage the leasehold or property ownership.
- To save time and money

Does your firm have the same in-house professional expertise?

Real estate management is NOT just about finding space but rather a continuous cycle.

IN/House Corporate Real Estate provides the unexpected in commercial real estate services for companies of all sizes. Whether you have three or three hundred employees, one or one hundred locations, we are your in-house real estate department.

Through a proven process similar to those utilized by Fortune 500 corporations, we provide:

- Strategic facility planning and relocation analysis.
- Site selection, lease negotiation, relocation support.
- Ongoing lease monitoring and oversight.
- Consultation on any real estate related matters impacting you or your clients.
- And much more — typically at no direct cost to you.
